Ten Christian Senators and Congressmen elected in Colombia

After a year of hard work where about 80% of Christians united together, great results were achieved in this nation's recent elections. One brand new party was formed called Colombia Justa Libres (i.e. Just and Free) and mobilized a half a million votes to elect 3 senators and a congressman. One of the new senators is pastor and apostle Jhon Milton Rodriguez of Cali (see picture above). Christians were elected from other parties as well, such as pastor Claudia Castellanos. But all will be working together in the government where Christian principles transcend party distinctions. GTN President Mark Beliles went there about 10 times in the past year to help them and continues to do so. Christians also captures many seats in Costa Rica's recent elections. Although they came short in the presidential race there is a strong movement in that nation to transform politics and government.

GTN launches new Network in Ecuador

Another new movement is emerging in Ecuador. In the past six months Mark Beliles has been working there with GTN's network of young professionals called Red Uno (see photo above with key leader Juan Carlos and his wife on left). Beliles has met with many pastors, and spoken to the chamber of commerce and equipped leaders in business and politics in several different seminars. Beliles was officially honored for his work in that nation by the Mayor of Guayaquil recently (see pic below), and now they are cooperating for a major youth transformation month this coming August.

Leaders in Switzerland working to Transform Banking and Money

Beliles attended an excellent conference held in Zurich, Switzerland in February. GTN friend and Christian economist Uli Kortsch convened this amazing assembly of experts from many countries. An important vote will be held there in June by the Swiss people that could have great impact in this arena. See photo below of Uli speaking.
